FOOT BATHING ADVISORY ARTICLE

- Foot bathing is essential for preventing and controlling infectious lameness in dairy cows.
- It is especially important for managing digital dermatitis (Mortellaro) a painful, contagious condition.
- A Teagasc study found 44% of dairy farmers have digital dermatitis, but only 31% use regular foot bathing.
- Foot bathing at milking time improve hoof hygiene by killing infectious agents.
- Correct technique is crucial – poor practice makes foot bathing ineffective and may even spread disease.
